Four cars of cattle from Minnesota were unloaded at Didsbury on Monday.

Dr. Lackner reports a very successful month in the real estate business on the Lackner estate and several fine residences are in the course of construction.

Fall rye is now five feet high and blooming.

Considerable excitement has been caused in town by the overseer in removing all the hitching posts in front of the stores and having them placed on the street.

The Red Deer football team will play at Didsbury on July 15th.

Our boys won at Red Deer 3-0. Another fine rain Thursday and the crops are looking good.

DANCE AND AUCTION AT SPRINGSIDE SCHOOL

The dance and auction sale put on by the Junior Red Cross at the Springside school house on Friday, June 22nd, was largely attended and everybody enjoyed the snappy music by Mrs. J. Cuthbert, Sandy, and Mr. Bob McGiffin.

JOB BUREAU TO DISCONTINUE ACTIVITIES

The Job Bureau, which was organized in the Grade X class of Didsbury High School, has found that it must discontinue its activities for the summer months. The reason is the shortage of workers. So many of the boys and girls go to the country for the summer or on vacation.

The bureau officials are sorry that some of the jobs the members did were not inspected but hope the employers were satisfied.

It is intended to start the Job Bureau again in the fall when school opens, with a higher standard of work, better inspecting system and more workers.

DAIRY CALF CLUB FIELD DAY AT O. S. A. SATURDAY

Didsbury Club Members Make Good Showing

Last Saturday about one hundred Dairy Calf Club members and their friends met at the O.S.A. school of Agriculture. Clubs represented were Didsbury, Olds and Bowden, and in the morning they took part in a judging contest, for which the Holstein cattle of the Agriculture school were used. After the judging Mr. C.W. Gordon placed the cattle, giving orally his reasons for doing so.

After the judging contest everyone gathered on the lawn and enjoyed a picnic lunch. A silver collection was taken up, which provided prizes for sports and softball. Mr. Tom Morris was umpire, when the Didsbury Calf Club played Olds, with Didsbury winning 24 to 18. The winners then played the Bowden Club and Bowden won from Didsbury.

Foot races were run off and then the married men, who had been interested spectators in the first games, played Bowden. Tom Morris made the only home run in the game and the ladies present were concerned about the men being so exhausted that they would not be able to make the cows that night. Dominion Livestock branch, and C. W. Gordon, O.S.A. Animal Husbandry Instructor, conducted an oral examination of all Dairy Calf Club members over 16. Among the Didsbury members winning good marks were John Parker, Clovis Webb and Marjorie Bruce. As one of the members was unable to take the examination owing to illness, final decision of the Didsbury team will not be made until Fair Day, as to who will represent the club this fall.

Adults present from Didsbury included Mrs. J. Shields, Mrs. and Mrs. W. Irvine, Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs, Mr. and Mrs. Stiles, E. Clarke and Tom Morris.

KNOX CHURCH HONORS MARGARET ADSHEAD

Knox United Church held a social hour after the evening service last Sunday, when Miss Margaret Adshead, who is leaving in the fall for Columbia University to study music, was the guest of honor.

After a musical program Mr. C. H. Robertson of Westcott expressed appreciation of Westcott friends for Margaret's services. Then Mr. T. Morris, chairman of the church board, thanked Margaret for the fine service she had given as organist and choir leader, and presented her with a purse on behalf of the Board, members and friends of the church. Margaret replied, thanking them all for their kindness.

The ladies served lunch and before closing the evening with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" Mr. C.H. Adshead expressed his thanks to the church, minister and community for the good influence surrounding Margaret during her stay in Didsbury.

The Rev. D. Whyte Smith acted as chairman.

MRS. E. MACK DIES IN CALGARY ON JUNE 27

Mrs. Ernestine Wilhelmina Mack, 77, died in a Calgary hospital on Wednesday, June 27th.

Born in Europe, Mrs. Mack moved to Didsbury about 40 years ago, and about six months ago she moved to Calgary to reside.

Funeral services were held from the Evangelical Church, Didsbury, on Saturday afternoon at 1:30 p.m., with Rev. A.M. Anaeher officiating.

Didsbury Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements and interment followed in the Didsbury cemetery.

NOTES FROM THE WEST

Mrs. Glen Evans and baby son were Calgary visitors for the past week.

A farewell party was held last Friday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Ross, old-timers of the Zella district, who are leaving to make their home in B.C.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Blain returned to their home in Vancouver after spending the past two weeks visiting relatives in the Elkton district.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Cowitz and Mrs. Alfred Cowitz are visiting the former's sister in Saskatchewan.

Miss Jean Fletcher, who was a patient in the Belcher hospital, Calgary, for some months, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher of Westcott, and looking fine.

Mr. and Mrs. A.L. Hogg received word that their son, Norman, who was seriously ill with a throat infection, in the RCAF hospital in Vancouver, is almost completely recovered after receiving treatment with the new wonder drug, penicillin.

A welcome home is extended to John Worthington Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Worthington, who has spent several years overseas. Also to Pat Flynn of Water Valley, who returned over the week end after spending over a year as a prisoner of war.

FAREWELL PARTY FOR MR. AND MRS. H. ROSS

A crowd of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mrs. Hyde on Friday afternoon, June 29, to surprise Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Ross who are leaving the district soon.

As the wedding was ideal the party was held on the lawn. Many old timers were present and entertained the gathering by relating pioneer experiences.

Mr. Brower, one of the earliest settlers, coming to the Zella district in 1902, told of the difficulties he and Mr. Ross had had with their bulky ponies trying to break land.

Mr. Ingham, who arrived in 1904, was the next speaker, and so on down the years, many told of their date of settlement, their pioneering and their pleasant association with the Ross's.

Mr. Craig, the last speaker, concluded the program with a very suitable "solo" and the honored guests were then presented with a purse. Mr. Ross replied in a fitting manner, and coffee and a delicious lunch was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross will be greatly missed in the community. They have resided here for 42 years and so cheerfully taken a leading part in all the district activities. Their many friends wish them health and happiness in their new home.

INVERNESS NEWS NOTES

It has rained real hard every day since June 9th, with the exception of three days.

Roads are very bad and in a very muddy condition.

Some potatoes, seeded about the first of May, are showing just above the ground. Real early-sown barley is making good growth.

A good crowd attended the sale of Lester Inman on June 29th, considering the roads were muddy and in very bad condition. Two parties from Clovermont bought all of Mr. Inman's spruce rails and posts at a high price. Bidding was brisk and prices were fair to very good. Junk sold well and several parties brought in goods to be sold.

Andy Metzger who has land at Inverness attended Lester Inman's sale. Andy is sawing for Ed Berscht and they say the lumber is running good, and nice lumber, too.

BRITISH AIRLINER TO HOLD 224 PEOPLE

Britain's newest plane designed for trans-Atlantic service—the Bra-zon 1—is capable of carrying 80 passengers in sleeping berths on non-stop flights from London to New York.

On short day flights this eight-engine aircraft can accommodate 224 passengers comfortably.

GRADUATE NURSES NEEDED

The situation in regard to the supply of graduate nurses and hospital attendants is still serious all over Canada, according to Mrs.
Rox Eaton, Associate Director of National Selective Service.

The situation now appears to be the most difficult in the Prairie Provinces.
"Literally hundreds of graduate nurses are still required," says Mrs.
Eaton. "Through appeals to nurses to accept new assignments immediately a former assignment has ended, through the nurses staggering their vacations, and through declining essential requirements, a good deal of the deficiency has been made up."

Mrs. Eaton also stated that the hospitals are now somewhat better provided with workers, other than graduate nurses, who are so necessary for hospital operation.

BRITISH RATION REDUCED

Until normal conditions are restored in European food production, Britons will tighten their belts still further. The following are some of the steps taken at the end of May to reduce the country's food stocks:

Sugar: This year's Christmas bonus of half a pound has been cancelled and other reductions necessary to bring Britain's stocks down by 300,000 tons will be made.

Oils and Fats: To be reduced by about 350,000 tons by the end of July, 1945.

Shredded Suet: To be rationed.
Soap: Stocks to be reduced by one-eighth except for young children and babies.

Bacon: Weekly ration to be reduced from four to three ounces.

Meat: British consumption will be down to 100 pounds per head in 1945 compared with 115 pounds in 1944.

The Explorers Club was organiz-

WEDDINGS

GRANGE—PROSS

A pretty wedding took place on Thursday, June 28th at the home of the bride's parents when Marjory Kathleen, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Pross, was united in marriage to Mr. Arthur Bloor Grange, son of Mr. E. B. Grange and the late Mrs. Grange of Har-mattan.

Rev. D. Whyte Smith performed the ceremony in the presence of immediate relatives, and many and white lilies formed the decorations.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was gownned in white sheer with fingertip veil and orange blossoms.

After a buffet supper the happy couple left on a short honeymoon, the bride travelling in a gold color accessories.

FRANKLIN—CASEBEER

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Casebeer of Morris on June 18th at 2:30 with the Rev.
Cowan of Rowley officiating, when their youngest daughter, Kathleen Beryl, became the bride of Willard Charles Franklin, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Franklin of Cremona.

While the wedding march was being played by the bride's sister, Mrs. John Shearer, the bride, looking lovely in a white floor length sown of tulle and pink flowers, entered on the arm of her father.
She carried a bouquet of apple blossoms and wore a fine gold chain with a mother of pearl pen-dant.

She was attended by the groom's sister, Lemaude, who wore a floor length gown of pink tulle and orange blossoms in her hair, and carried a bouquet of apple blossoms.

The groom was attended by the bride's brother, Mr. Louis Case-beer of Morris.

During the signing of the register Mrs. Shearer played "I Love You Truly".

A buffet luncheon was served immediately following the ceremony.

For travelling the bride chose a three piece ensemble of cherry tan brown with white accessories. The happy couple left for a honeymoon in Calgary and Banff, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Frank-

BRITAIN TO PAY MORE FOR EGGS

Britain will need a billion eggs this year and Canadian farmers can safely go all out on production, said John A. Peacock, of British ministry of food, recently in Winnipeg.

"Britain's need for eggs is greater than ever," said W.A. Brown, chief of the Dominion poultry services. "The British government will pay six a dozen more for eggs than it did last fall, with the increase effective Sept. 15 to Dec. 31."

He estimated Britain would want 36,000,000 more eggs next fall than they imported a year ago.

DEER IN DRUG STORE

A bull in a china shop has nothing on a deer in a drug store. Approximately $240 damage was caused by a panic stricken jumping deer in a pharmacy at Portage La Prairie recently. A high jumper, the animal also broke a neon sign hanging from the ceiling. After exiting through the front window, the deer sped down the main street bound for freedom.

Britain and United States Issue A Joint Statement On Destruction Of Enemy U-Boats

BRITAIN and the United States disclosed that more than 700 German submarines were destroyed during the Battle of the Atlantic. Prime Minister Churchill and President Truman, in their last monthly statement on the submarine war, gave the total of U-boats sunk, in addition to "many others" which they said the Germans themselves destroyed in the final stages of the war.

The statement issued jointly at London and Washington, follows:

With the surrender of Germany, the battle of the Atlantic has ended. German U-boats have ceased to operate and now are proceeding under Allied orders.

Beginning in September, 1939, it has been a long and relentless struggle, remaining only the utmost courage, bearing and endurance, but also the highest scientific and technical skill.

Germany's object was to cut the Allied sea communications, upon which the maintenance of the Allied war depended. This included the movements and supply of armies and air forces during successful campaigns on four continents.

Losses have been heavy in lives and material. At the peak in 1941 and 1942, the toll of the struggle hung in the balance.

On the other hand, over seven hundred U-boats have been sunk and many others have been destroyed by the Germans themselves in the final stage.

Most of these successes have been achieved by the combined Allied naval and air forces working in the closest co-operation; others are due to mines laid from aircraft and ships, others to bombing in harbors, and a few U-boats were lost by marine dangers.

But success was achieved. Thanks to the sailors and airmen, the scientists and technicians, the ship builders and factory workers, the convoys reached their destination and enabled the soldiers and the airmen to fulfill their tasks.

We, President and Prime Minister, in this our last joint statement on the U-boat war, can now report that the Allies have finished the job.

Discover Archives

Records Of The German Foreign Office Are Found

The "complete archives" of the German foreign office, including records of the international intrigues of Joachim von Ribbentrop, former Nazi foreign minister, were discovered by the United States 1st Army in the Harz Mountains, and now are being examined by the United States and British experts in London, the American broadcasting station in Europe said.

Quoting a despatch to the London Daily Express, Alan said that "several thousand packages of documents have been revealed to American Army authorities by two former German foreign office officials who said the archives had been brought to the Harz Mountains for safekeeping from Allied air attacks."

The American commander accompanied the two officials to the house where the documents were kept," said the broadcast as recorded by the United States Office of War Information. He immediately made a report on the discovery, which seemed so important to the Allied authorities that they ordered the papers sent to London by air.

More than 100 Dakota airplanes would have been needed for the transport. Military authorities could not spare so many planes. Therefore, the documents were put on a train and shipped to London.

Wooden Fare

German Chemist Wants To Produce Protein From Old Lumber

Dr. Friedrich Bergius, German chemist, asked American authorities for permission to resume production of a protein food which he said was derived from waste wood. His action was taken immediately on his request.

The goal is to get 100 production plants that could reduce 800 tons of dry wood annually from "wood waste" enough to produce a monthly diet substitute for most eggs, butter and milk for 1,700,000 persons.

Any kind of wood old lumber, discarded chairs and shingles can be used in manufacturing "wood sugar" from which dry yeast is refined, Bergius said.

DIFFICULT TASK

The task confronting the Allies in Germany is a tremendous one. Some people think it will be almost as hard to put the country together as it was to take it apart—Brunker in The New Yorker.

British Orders Series

GEORGE CROSS

GEORGE MEDAL

B.E.M.

The George Cross was established by the King in 1940 as "a new mark of honor for men and women in all walks of life." It recognizes heroic acts performed by civilians, and a military division permits its award to the forces. It ranks next to the Victoria Cross. The George Medal, created at the same time, is given for acts of civilian bravery. It is also given to members of the forces for heroic actions for which purely military honors are not normally granted. The ribbon is red with five narrow stripes of blue. The British Empire Medal may be awarded members of the services below the rank of warrant officer for gallant and distinguished service, not in action, or for exceptional valuable and meritorious service.

Synthetic Gems

They Defy Detection Except Under Eye Of The Experts

Experiments of an Ohio research firm may turn out a cascade of "hot egg" rubies and blue, yellow or pink sapphires—at about a dollar a carat.

The Battelle Memorial Institute of Columbus, Ohio, under a six-month contract with the office of production resources and development of the war production board, will tinker with synthetic gems, concocted of powder and flame. "Boulders," or the original masses from which a gem or gems may be fashioned, have been produced thus far to a size of 300 to 400 carats, or about three-quarters of an inch in diameter with a length of about two inches.

Such artificial gems defy detection, except under the expert eye of the jeweler, even then a microscope may be needed. As for beauty, clarity, cut, they surpass the mined gem because they are flawless.

For synthetic sapphires and rubies, according to the Union Carbide & Carbon Corp., one of the leading manufacturers of the stones, aluminum oxide is purified and pigment added for color.

The aluminum oxide of "alumina" is fed into an oxy-acetylene flame and the fused material is deposited on a fine-day pedestal in the form of a carrot-shaped mass the boulder.

There was a demand for industrial jewels to be used as bearings or precision instruments, such as watches. Families would augment their meagre income by sitting through the long winter days and nights cutting and polishing the rough stones.

When the war struck, American industry was caught with scarcely enough industrial jewels to complete its precision instruments. So the industry was born in the United States under evidence of two European war workers who were brought over to teach the secrets of the trade.

Niagara Falls

Shown That The Mighty Cataract Is Retreating Up The River

Niagara Falls means different things to different minds. To the newly weds it spells "honeymoon." To the old woman of the joke it represents only "a turn of waste of water." To the geologists of the Royal Ontario Museum it poses an interesting problem of time and erosion.

Before the Great Lakes existed, the glaciers invaded Ontario, the Lake Erie basin was drained by a stream called the Eriean River. It is believed to have cut across to the Lake Ontario basin near Dundas. The glacier, advancing southward, scraped the Eriean Valley full of dirt and when the last glacier left the region the old valley was sealed up. The Lake Erie basin filled up with water and spilled over the escarpment at Queenston. Niagara Falls originated at that time and the river began the cutting of its gorge which has required about 25,000 or 30,000 years. The falls are retreating up the river now at the rate of three to four feet a year, as established by a number of surveys. At this rate they would reach Lake Erie and start to drain it in about 45,000 years. This is a long time from the human standpoint, but very short in geological history. Man may delay the advance of the falls up the river by building protective works of some kind to decrease the rate of cutting of the Horseshoe Falls.

SUPPLIED COMEDY

Right from the beginning, Haydn, otherwise William Joyce, was a bit of a propaganda expert. He was so obviously phony, says the Detroit Free Press, that during the darkest days of the blitz, Englishmen eagerly tuned in his broadcasts on the night and stories of the Reich for their comely relief value. He did a great deal for the morale of the British people.

Alfred Nobel stumbled on the discovery of dynamite when, allegedly, he was working with nitroglycerine in a laboratory.

How Germans Turned Out Many Millions Of Pounds In Counterfeit British Bank Notes

THE Amsterdam newspaper "Het Parool" published a story relating how the Germans turned out millions of pounds in counterfeit British bank notes and circulated them throughout Europe in an attempt to undermine Britain's financial system.

Swastikas Gone

One Of The Hardest Things To Find In Germany

(By Joseph W. Grigg, Jr., E.U.P. Correspondent)

There were just two swastikas to be found in Frankfurt, a month after Germany's surrender, and they were both on blitzed buildings.

There used to be tens of millions of swastikas in Germany. They were on every building and every house in Hitler's heyday. Every household was forced to own at least one.

I spent a whole day searching for Nazi signs in this city, once the stronghold of the notorious Nazi Gauleiter, Wilhelm Sprenger. Of course, nobody here will admit ever being a Nazi, and they all have stories to tell about Sprenger.

They tell about how he had a concrete, bombproof shelter made for himself and his voluptuous mistress, and that was where the two of them stayed during the heavy raids on Frankfurt.

Gauleiter Sprenger ordered that anyone who left Frankfurt would be shot. But when the Americans approached the town he bumbled the blade into a big Mercedes car one night, and disappeared. First, he burned a lot of food and liquor which he had kept stored in the shelter.

It was then that the people of Frankfurt went to work destroying the signs of Nazism. My daylong search uncovered one swastika in the doorway of a blitzed building on the marketplace of the Frankfurt branch of the Reich Social Insurance office. The other, also on a blitzed building, where it apparently had remained unnoticed, belonged to the local Labor Front Bureau.

Several despatches of local doctors had pieces neatly clipped from the enamel. There was one with a piece of adhesive tape placed over one line. A little prying with a pocket knife disclosed a swastika and the words "Member of National Socialist Reich Medical Association."

The Adolf Hitler bridge over the Main river was blown up by the German army before it retreated from here. The people took the maples from the bridge, but they did not remove it. However, the "Hermann Goering Quay" further along the river has been renamed the "Tiger Main Quay."

I saw one Frankfurt business house, a firm of glass manufacturers, which typed a notice in bad English on the front door, saying it never had any connection with any political party.

To show how far things have been reversed one of the public libraries has renamed itself the "Rothschild Foundation Library." It resurfaced a large tablet, which it displayed prominently in a window stating it had been founded in 1912 by various leading members of the Rothschild family, the same Jewish family banished by Hitler.

Largest Diamond

Was Flown To Britain In A Registered Package

A $500,000 mount diamond the world's biggest was flown to Britain recently in a registered package. It is the size of a hen's egg, weighs 779 carats, and was found by a native in Sierra Leone last January. It is the property of the Sierra Leone Selection Trust Company.

A leading diamond expert said: "It is a beauty, a magnificent stone of exceptionally fine color and quality, with hardly a flaw. It will be used for good."

When the stone is cut its value will probably increase to about $2,000,000.

Largest ancient diamond of all time was the Cullinan. It was cut and presented to King Edward VII. —London Daily Mail.

MIRACLE DRUG

Sir Alexander Fleming, British physician and scientist who discovered penicillin, said that much remains to be done in increasing the usefulness of the "miracle drug" particularly in methods of application.

A Dutch laborer, forced to work in the concentration camp at Suchsenhausen, Germany, where the counterfeit money was produced, gave the story to the newspaper upon his liberation.

Highlights of the story included: The bank notes were turned out in denominations of £5, £10, £20 and £50. The work was so expert that only one note was returned from abroad as "forged," and that proved to be made by a "ritual" counterfeiting enterprise in Italy.

Forced laborers on the project included 140 expert engravers from almost all the occupied countries. Even German professional counterfeiters were released from jail to help with the work in a closely guarded block of the concentration camp.

Means of distributing the fake money were many. One method was described as outbidding other countries in neutral markets.

The Dutch laborer cited an instance where Britain bid £4,000,000 (about $18,000,000) for leather in Switzerland. Germany bid £8,000,000 and got the leather, and he got that many more counterfeit notes in circulation.

The plant began production of counterfeit United States currency this year, but had completed only 5,000 American bills.

In March the plant was transferred in 16 freight cars to Redlitz, Austria. In May an order was received to shut down and kill all the workers but American troops arrived before the executions could be carried out.

Appreciative Listener Was Handled Challenge By Noted Musician

The noted musician Max Regier once played the piano part of Schubert's "Trotz Quater" at a concert in Berlin. Regier played the composition so beautifully that an appreciative woman member of the audience sent him some trout the next day for his dinner. Regier was much pleased with this tribute to his skill as a pianist. Later in writing his letter of thanks he declared that at his next performance he would play, with her permission, Haydn's "Ox Minuet."

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY— EASY DOES IT

By M. T. GRIFFIN

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Edna Benton was less than half way to the Point when rain drops began splattering on the windshield. "Damn!" she muttered. Night driving was bad enough, but driving in the rain—it was getting chilly, too. She had nothing over her wool dress. When Paul called at eight to say that he was marooned in a crazy little place called Harper's Point, and that he had just missed the only night train, she had answered gaily. "Don't worry, old dear. I'm already on the way. See you within an hour." And she had hopped into the car just as she was.

It was a surprise to have Paul returning so soon. He had expected to be away four or five days, and now here he was coming back after only two. The car was in the shop when he left. She was glad the repairs were finished in time for this.

The rain was coming down heavily now. She drove over to the curb and looked in the back seat for a possible wrap. Ah, Paul's jacket. Just the thing. She pulled it out gratefully. It smelled of strong tobacco, and one of his many pipes was in the pocket. She drove more slowly as she left the city lights behind her. Out this far people were not to be walking in the road, and she could not see very well through the driving rain.

She was well out in the country when her headlights picked out the figure of a woman walking ahead of her. It was a funny sight. She was holding a newspaper over her head in a vain attempt to keep dry. On an impulse Edna stopped. "Throw away the make-believe umbrella and hop in," she cried.

"Gee, thanks!" She was dripping water all over the car floor. "Wish you'd happened along about a mile back. This bonnet of mine set me back four hard-earned dollars." She had removed the hat and was gazing ruefully at it. "And look at it now." Edna looked. It was bright red straw top-heavy with trimming. "I wouldn't give four cents for it, Edna thought. Aloud she said, "respectfully dropping looking, all right." Then, "Do you usually go walking in the rain?"

"Only way you can get anywhere around here is walk," said the woman. "Ah! Luck enough to own a car!" As an afterthought she added, "Say, this is a pretty nice bus you've got, dearie. Don't you think it's a little bit risky picking up strangers?" After all, you're just a kid, you know, and it's pretty lonely around those parts."

"I can take care of myself," said Edna. But already she regretted her impulsive act. She stole a glance at her guest. Hard-boiled, she thought, and her heart began to pound heavily. The woman kept up a stream of small talk. Edna responded brightly, consoling herself with the thought. She'll be getting off at the next house, sure. Houses were few and far between, but they came and went, and still her passenger made no move.

It was when they reached the wooded stretch that Edna missed her bag. It had been lying in her lap, and now there was nothing there. Nothing at all. Her hands were moist on the steering wheel and her lips were dry. A month's house money. And Paul worked so hard for it. What would he say? She had only herself to blame for this. Then a wave of relief swept over her. The bag must have fallen to the floor. She showed the car and peered down hopefully. But nothing—nothing anywhere.

"Drop something?" asked the voice beside her. Edna did not answer. She couldn't. She thought, it must have happened when I turned to view the window. This was a dangerous woman. Edna dared not move. She sat like an image, her mind in a whirl, her pounding heart suffocating her. A month's house money. She had to get it back. Suddenly she had an idea.

She brought the car to a halt with grinding brakes, dropped her hand into the pocket of the jacket, jabbed the stem of Paul's pipe into the woman's side and said in a curiously calm voice: "Drop the bag, sister, and get going!"

It was ridiculously easy. She heard the woman's quick intake of breath, the thud of the bag falling on the floor, and the bang of the car door. Then she was speeding, speeding.

"Oh, Paul," she said tearfully, as she drove up beside him. "It sure is good to see you!"

"It's good to see you, too," said Paul. "But what's the matter, kitten? You look funny."

"Get in and I'll tell you," she said, sliding out of the driver's seat. "Here, take this with you!" He was picking up the sofa pillow she always sat on. Then, "Hello! A new place for this, isn't it?"

"For what?" she asked, turning. He was holding something in his hand. For a moment she just sat there, stricken. It was her pocket-book. Now she remembered putting it under the pillow when she stopped to get the jacket. She reached her hand over her mouth to hold back a scream.

"Edna, for Pete's sake, what is it?" shouted Paul.

For answer she snapped on the light. There on the floor at her feet lay a bright red patent leather bag.

Quinine Still Scarce

Java The Only World Source Is Held By Japanese

Quinine, the drug essential in combating malaria, continues one of the most acute supply shortages. Munitions Department officials said. When the Japs took Java in early 1942, with it went the only world source of quinine. The Allies had a stockpile but it was not large enough to give assurance of adequate supplies and against it was an increasing demand.

The development of air routes over malaria-infested areas, fighting in Africa and the Pacific war at itself mount new demands for quinine. Intensified fighting in the Pacific is going to mean a further increase in these requirements, and so far synthetic substitutes have come far in meeting the call, so the Allied stockpile continues to be the main source, and it is going down.

HOG PRODUCTION DECLINES

Reflecting sharp reductions in the United States and Canada, the world's hog production declined about nine per cent, during last year, to complicate the problem of stretching meat supplies over a war-weary world, the office of foreign agricultural relations at Washington said.

• Canada thru a peephole: At the Memento song festival to be held in Winnipeg, will be heard a choir of 1000 voices: a solid special train is bringing folks in from the Morden line. Just Winters, Alberta, the Cafe advertised a cable of congratulations from King George on his 10th birthday; he celebrated with a new set of "stare teeth". . . . In the Canadian, Alta. News of May 24, the Old Chief Cafe advertised a special dinner with pie a la mode for 45 cents, including a pack of gum or chocolate bar free as well as tomato catsup free. . . . Councillors of Sidney Township in Ontario decided to pay $25 as a gift to each service person returning from overseas.

• For the first time with the market for pit props for British mines open to British Columbia, 10,000 cords will be sent from the area from the Campbell River to Victoria, another 10,000 cords will go to the interior. Cost on delivery will be $100 a cord, compared with $20 which used to be paid by Britain for Scandinavian deliveries.

• The antithesis of Nazi brutality: F. S. Lucas, of Canora, Sask., has started a little month hospital on his own, with the first patient being a robin with a broken wing. He put a splint on the damaged wing in the hope that the bird would again become a hard working member of society. The robin was a U.S.A. banded.

• A patriot in her own right: Little ten-year Paty Finlay of Lacombe, Alta., has been an invalid, confined to bed, but she wanted to do her bit for the war. Carefully glooming the odd pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters from her parents, she is now the proud possessor of two $50 victory bonds—for the Canada she loves.

• Far in the north, community spirit: A pleasant sight at Mabel Hill school near Nipawit, Sask., every farmer in the neighborhood was out with rake, hoe, paint brush and hammer, to give the school its annual clean-up and repair. At 11:30 the womenfolk put in an appearance with a delicious hot dinner, after which they all pitched in till evening and a swell job was accomplished.

• International trade: The first complete herd of dairy cattle ever shipped to Mexico was assembled at Lindsay, Ont., where its well bred Holstein-Friesians were bought for the Guajalajara ranch of Jesus Gonzales Gallo, secretary to the Mexican president. Most came from breeders between Lindsay and Belleville, and two bulls from Vancouver, Que.

But German Field Marshal Took Orders From British Bombarrier

Field Marshal von Milch, one time successor to Goering and General Hasso von Manteuffel, former commander of the German Third Panzer Army, are in a Lubenberg prison camp, where officially they live on Army rations.

But they are eating these out with champagne, eggs, and caviars brought to them almost daily by women admirers and friends.

German girls stand outside the gates in groups, hoping to get the general's autographs.

Once von Milch was impatient at not being able to go for his walk at the time he wished. A guard Bombarrier Hadley from Durham, told him to wait.

"Who are you to give an order to a field marshal?" snorted Milch. "I'm a bomberrier in the British Army," said Hadley. London Daily Express.

• Promotion: Sgt. W. J. Maltland, D.F.M., son of E.C.'s Attorney General, lost his life in action last year in the skies over Germany. His mother, searching through his boyhood scrapbook, recently found this poem written by her son when he was twelve years of age, which foretold the war and his death. That was only six years ago. Canadians can well read this and think:

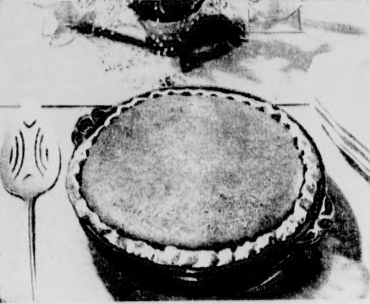

"We are the heroes of the air. We fight and laugh and die and roar. To come near us no foe would dare. For such a stream of lead we pour. "Our planes go crashing to the ground. Our men fear not the sight of Hell. And some of us lie beneath a mound. Who for their King and Country fell. Oh, how the dusky tempest blew. And the battle in the sky kept on. As through the air the bullets flew. Until the brightness of the dawn."

Motoring In Britain

Gasoline Ration Sufficient For Only 120 Miles A Month

British motorists, barred from the highways since the start of the war more than 5 1/2 years ago, have returned to the road with gasoline rations sufficient to drive 120 miles a month.

The Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders estimated that lifting of the ban would result in the return to use of approximately 250,000 pleasure cars, bringing to about 750,000 the number of vehicles on the highways. Before the war 2,000,000 cars travelled the roads.

Trade circles expressed belief that return of many pre-war cars would be delayed because of a use tax of approximately $5 per horsepower, compulsory insurance and the high price of gasoline—about 45 cents a gallon.

For the present, most drivers will have to be satisfied with machines of pre-war vintage. A purchase tax of 33 1/2 per cent, plus scarcity of materials and labor, will limit the number of new cars on the road for some time to come.
